Staffing Services

Helping organizations find the right resources for their needs.

Finding the Right Person for the Job

Putting the right person in the right place at the right time can make all the difference.

As a solutions provider, we pride ourselves on helping organizations mitigate their operational problems. One of the major problems most organizations have is finding the talent they need to make their endeavor a success. Not all positions are created equal, and sometimes the difference between relevance and insignificance is filling a key position with just the right person.

At 1080 Titan Technologies, our professional consultants understand that—in many respects—the modern workforce has shifted. Outsourcing has become a completely viable option for all businesses, and with it, comes an increased demand for temporary workers, freelancers, and contractors. Since our whole platform is based on helping businesses like yours eliminate downtime and operational inefficiency, providing organizations with options that work to mitigate their workforce problems is second nature to us.

"...sometimes the difference between relevance and insignificance is filling a key position with just the right person."

Technology Management Positions

Certified technicians to help you build a more efficient business.

While our managed IT services can work for many businesses, your business may prefer a more hands-on approach. If you're starting a major technology project, or you feel you could benefit from an in-house IT administrator, you may have trouble finding one with the right qualifications. At 1080 Titan Technologies, we work with technology every day, and we know talent when we see it.

Professional Services

A business has a lot of moving parts. Keep them moving with the right people.

If any part of your business needs additional resources, we can help you to find industry professionals seeking employment in a variety of positions.
